

Vital project in Cambodia

Project: Disaster risk reduction

Objective:

To educate children and communities in Kampong Cham province and Siem Reap about natural disasters and how they can reduce the impact of these

Target: £125,430

Why Plan works in Cambodia

More than one third of Cambodians live below the poverty line, struggling to survive on less than £1 a day. Cambodia is highly vulnerable to the impacts of natural disasters like floods, drought, hurricanes and landslides which are increasing in frequency and intensity due to climate change. It has the 5th highest flood risk out of 162 countries and floods affect 1.8 million people every year.

Providing communities with the appropriate skills and knowledge they need to confront the risk of a disaster before the worst happens, and encouraging them to take action can greatly reduce its impact; protecting livelihoods and assets and preventing financial, physical and emotional distress.

How you can help

We aim to raise £125,430 to strengthen communities' resilience to disasters by increasing their awareness of the risks they face and advising them on how they can reduce them. Plan will help to set up and support children's associations and youth clubs which will increase their member's awareness and encourage them to devise campaigns and create drawings highlighting the need for disaster risk reduction in the community.

Plan enables poor communities to take action together to achieve children's rights to an education, decent healthcare, clean drinking water and more. We give long-term practical support so poor communities can improve the lives of their children and themselves. We also campaign to change the way a whole range of adults - from parents to politicians - think and act, because we know their decisions can perpetuate poverty.

Children themselves can be powerful advocates for change, so we encourage them to take part in decision making, from village councils to national assemblies. And because children will be the leaders of tomorrow, we believe that strengthening their voices now will create a fairer, better world - now and in the future.

This is just one of many projects within Plan's wider disaster risk reduction programme. With your support, this project can make a difference to the lives of many children, families and communities in Cambodia.
